In an era where traditional religious affiliations are evolving, this panel discussion will delve into the passionate engagement of individuals across generations and explore how diverse religious perspectives contribute to MSU's vibrant campus community.

Our panelists will share their insights on effectively navigating religious diversity within classrooms and office environments. This hour-long dialogue promises to be a pivotal platform for acknowledging and understanding the rich tapestry of religious experiences at Michigan State University.

PANELISTS

Moderator

SALAH HASSAN (he/him)
Director of Global Studies and Professor of English

SHREENA NIKETA GANDHI (she/her)
Assistant Professor of Religious Studies

MOHAMMAD KHALIL (he/him)
Director of the Muslim Studies Program, Professor of Religious Studies, and Adjunct Professor of Law

MORGAN SHIPLEY (he/him)
Inaugural Foglio Endowed Chair of Spirituality, Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies, Department of Religious Studies

HANNAH GREENSPAN
Student

No registration is required. Scan QR code to attend via Zoom.